

VIGOROUS ARTILLERY DUEL CONTINUES

GERMANS MAKE FIERCE ATTACKS ON DEFENDER

Bombardment of the British Position at Ypres Goes on Day and Night

FLOODS MENACE THE GERMAN FORCES

In the Center of the Battle Line in France the Germans, Although Out-numbered, Have Been Able to Withstand the Attacks of the Allies Because of Their Heavier Guns and Better Positions—Germans Have Begun Their Forcing Tactics in the Region of Ypres—Rheims is Again Shelled by the Kaiser's Artillery—French Make Some Progress on the Heights of the Meuse.

(By International News Service)
Paris, Nov. 18.—For two days and nights the Germans have been bombarding the flanks and front of the British position at Ypres. These attacks appear to be the forerunner of another attempt to carry the defenders' trenches by storm.

At Dixmude the floods have menaced the German position and cut off their communication lines, washing out railroads and highways.

In the center the Germans, although outnumbered, are able to withstand the attacks of superior forces because of their heavier artillery and better position.

German Advance Checked
The impression gained here by the official bulletin last night, as the statement itself says, "satisfactory." The announcement that the allies have made progress at every point where the fighting has been important during the last two days since the loss of Dixmude, indicates that the German advance has been definitely checked and that the plan of General Joffre to push his lines ahead, no matter how slowly, is one that takes fully into account temporary checks and incidental reverses.

A Cheering Report
The report is especially cheering because of the fact that the Germans have again begun their forcing tactics in the region of Ypres, which has all along been the center of the most severe actions and that the allies have held their ground and even more or less marked progress. The statement follows:

"According to the latest advices, the enemy has renewed his attacks to the east and to the south of Ypres, but this has not altered the situation, which remains satisfactory."

"During the last two days we have registered progress, more or less pronounced, everywhere we have attacked; at Hetsas, on the Yser, between Annetieres and Arras, in the region of Vailly, in the Argonne and on the heights of the Meuse."

Rheims Again Shelled
London, Nov. 18.—Undeterred by wintry weather and floods, the Germans are still making an effort to break down the allies' defense along the Franco-Belgian frontier. Although the Berlin official report refers to the day as having been a quiet one, there has been an almost continuous artillery duel, with occasional infantry attacks, but apparently without either side making any progress.

The line from the coast to Neuport, which has been receiving less attention since the Germans began their attempt to get the British out of Ypres, again has been subjected to a bombardment, which is described as a very violent one, while to the south of Dixmude the Germans have been trying, under fire from the allies' cannon, to build works to check the flood which compelled them to evacuate part of their trenches.

At other points the big guns again have been busy, and Rheims has been subjected to another rain of shells.

Relieved the Pressure
From the allies' point of view probably the most important operations are those to the south of Verdun, where the French troops for some time have been trying further to relieve the pressure which the Germans have been exerting on the fortresses. They have at last succeeded, according to the French official communication, and besides making some progress on the heights of the Meuse, they have advanced on St. Mihiel, the only point on the left bank of the Meuse which the Germans have been successful in holding.

COME INTO TOWN; LIVING IS GOOD

Clearfield Should Extend Borough Lines in All Directions.

DISTRICTS SHOULD BE ANNEXED

There Are About a Dozen Settlements Adjacent to the Town Which Would Benefit if They Were to be Brought Across the Imaginary Line of Separation.

Why should not the lines of the borough be extended to include the districts lying adjacent to the corporation on all sides? This question has been frequently asked, both by citizens and strangers. There are at least a dozen districts within one and a quarter miles of Clearfield which ought by rights to be included in the borough limits. So far as is known, there is no serious objection on the part of the people living in these districts to annexation to the borough, while the fact that such annexation would greatly advance the interests and increase the value of the properties of the present outsiders might be enlarged upon at length.

The following are among the districts near to Clearfield which would be benefited by being brought into the borough: Moose Creek; Paradise and the hospital districts on the west; Boyntonville, Squaw Hollow and from Fourteenth street east to the north and east; Wrigley's addition, Harrison & Walker's plot and Hillsdale to the southeast; Riverside station, and the district south of Wallace street in the southwest, and the McNally farm, and the Snyder highway almost directly south.

If all of these districts were to be brought into the borough Clearfield would enjoy a much more unified reputation than it does at present and the population of the borough would be somewhere about 8000.

What has the borough to offer to the people of these outlying districts? In the first place, the borough is doing what it can to improve the streets and alleys. There are twenty miles of streets of all kinds in Clearfield. Of these six miles are paved and as the years pass other streets will be paved. There are twelve miles of sewers in Clearfield, and the sewer system would be extended to the new parts of the town as rapidly as the demand for the same would be made. Annexation to the borough would give the outlying districts the same advantages in the matter of paving and sewerage as those now enjoyed by the present borough.

In addition to this, the consolidation of the borough and the small districts in the township would afford to the people of the entire borough the educational facilities now enjoyed by the people of the borough and place them under the protection of the fire department. Two considerations which must appeal to the property owner and manufacturer. In the matter of educating their children the residents of the nearby districts would find that as citizens of the borough they would be giving their children much

BRITISH GUNBOATS SHELL GERMANS ON THE COAST

(By International News Service)
London, Nov. 18.—British warships have resumed the bombardment of the German positions on the Belgian coast and are attempting to destroy the German artillery which is shelling Neuport. That city is almost ruined. The artillery duel in Belgium, the most terrific in the history of the world, continues day and night with the aid of search lights.

Many explosions occur along the coast from bombs dropped by aviators. These demolished a factory at Zeebrugge, where submarines were being constructed by the Germans.

better advantages than is possible in the township schools.

Aside from the material benefits which would accrue to the people who are now living outside the borough limits the fact that consolidation would obliterate from the map the numerous names of the districts in which they live—some of which names are not at all euphonious—should induce a majority of the people interested to agree to annexation and become in fact what they now are in sentiment—Clearfielders, citizens of best town in the West Branch valley—a united, contented, prosperous family.

MINSTREL SHOW WILL BE SUCCESS

Rehearsal Witnessed by J. Clark Bowyer of Opera House

HE PRAISES THE PARTICIPANTS

Says The Performance Will be One of the Best Home Talent Entertainments Ever Produced in Clearfield—Competent People in Charge of the Ends—Rehearsals are Being Faithfully Conducted.

At the rehearsal last evening of the Y. M. C. A. Minstrels, a few outsiders were invited to come in and see how the boys were progressing. One of the men invited was J. Clark Bowyer, of the Opera House. Mr. Bowyer listened to the solos, the comedy and chorus numbers and in fact a greater part of the show as it is to be given and at the close of the rehearsal, he told the boys that the show was bound to be a success and that they would without doubt, give Clearfield one of the best home talent minstrel shows ever produced here. Such praise from a man who is so well acquainted with the theatrical business, is indeed encouraging, not only to the producers of the show, but to the boys themselves.

The tickets are in the hands of the members, and as the dates, December 3 and 4 are but two weeks away it behooves everyone to secure their tickets at the earliest possible moment.

The ends in the minstrel are in the hands of Wm. P. Mitchell, who has already interested Clearfielders with his work, and R.E. Johnson, manager of the Progress, both of whom are directing the show, and whose past experience fits them for this work. The second and third ends are by "Red" Stauffer, "Foxy" Borton, "Nick" Phillips and Foster Borton. A full cast of the soloists, etc., will be printed in the newspaper in a few days. Rehearsals have been left open for this evening to allow a rest but will be resumed again tomorrow evening at 7:30.

All Around The Farm

WINTER FOOD FOR FOWLS.

Animal Matter Should Be Supplied During Cold Season.

A great many erroneous impressions are held by some poultrymen in regard to the proper use of animal matter in the feed. Birds on free range in the summer take up large numbers of bugs, worms and various other insects. These contain elements that are absolutely necessary in the formation of bone, tissue, feathers and eggs. In the winter time or when the flock is kept closely yarded these elements must be provided artificially to get the best results.

Under average conditions the best feeds to furnish this necessary animal matter are green cut bone, meat scraps or meat meal and skim milk. Some good suggestions in regard to the use of these feeds are given by G. A. Bell, an expert in the employ of the government, as follows:

"Green cut bone is usually fed by itself, while the scraps and meat may be readily mixed with the mash. The bone consists of green or fresh bone, cut or shaved into thin pieces by a bone cutter. Bones from the butcher have more or less meat adhering, and the more of such meat the better, for the combination of bone and meat is excellent for producing eggs.

"Where a good supply of fresh bone can be obtained regularly it is very useful, but it cannot be kept saved for such long periods as the best scraps and animal matter. Green cut bone should be fed carefully and in a sweet condition, otherwise bowel trouble may result. One pound a day is sufficient for twenty hens, but not more than half a pound should be fed to that number of birds when first beginning to use it.

"From a half to three-fourths of a pound of animal matter or meat scraps may be fed to twelve or fifteen hens a day. Any form of meat is likely to join in the bowels of the hen when first fed. The hens should be watched carefully and not fed too much. After the fowls have become accustomed to the animal matter or meat scraps they may be kept constantly before them.

"When properly fed milk makes an excellent food for poultry. In feeding milk or buttermilk, however, the feeder must exercise care not to give too much, or bowel trouble will result. Skim milk is an economical feed. In skimming the most valuable food constituents—the nitrogenous substances—are left in the skim milk. Not only does this skim milk contain much nutritive material, but it contains it in a form which, as a rule, is easily digested.

"Skim milk may be advantageously substituted in part for meat feeds. It may also be used in mixing the soft feed or it may be given to the fowls to drink in addition to water."

Get Seed Before Hard Frost.

"Be sure to gather your seed for next year's crop of kaffir and corn before the first hard frost if you wish to obtain the best results from the seed," says G. E. Thompson, field superintendent of substations in the Kansas Agricultural college.

"The seed grown on your own or your neighbor's farm will prove the best, as it is adapted to your soil and climate," he says.

"The best way to harvest a seed crop, according to Mr. Thompson, is to go into the field with a sack and a knife, selecting the heads from the stalk before the sorghum is in the shock. By using this method the farmer has a chance to get his seed from the stalks having the most value as forage. The injurious effects of the drought and frost can often be avoided by selecting seed from the heads that mature first and thus obtaining a strain of early maturing kaffir or cane.

"The heads used for seed should be of uniform type and of good size. Care should be taken to avoid hybrid heads which are big and fluffy, but late in maturing. Comparatively dense heads will give heavier yields when thrashed. The seed will prove more satisfactory if it is taken from plants that are grown under average conditions. Thrashing is best done in the spring. The seed can be stored in sacks in a dry place. A good plan is to tie the sacks to the rafters of the granary or barn with wires.

SPORTS

TIMELY GOSSIP OF RING AND DIAMOND BY MENKE

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

(Special to Progress.)

New York, Nov. 18.—Charles W. Somers, owner of the Cleveland Naps, now is in a position where he can yell, "I told you so," with reference to the Federal league.

Somers financed the American league back in 1900 and 1901. He is young in years but old in baseball knowledge. When the Feds began making noises like a big league last winter, Somers told his colleagues that the new league had sufficient backing and that it looked to him like a permanent proposition.

Somers was laughed at. "All right," said Somers. "You fellows can spoof the Feds if you want. But to me it seems that they aren't going about this business with any by-night tactics. They are building for the future. We'd better give them real consideration right now before this matter goes to a point where we'll be forced into some ugly position."

Jess Willard, the fairly well known cowboy, intends to stand pat on what he has accomplished so far. He will not monkey with the buzz-saw of pugilism, known in private life as Sam Langford.

Willard means to be beaten up by Jack Johnson. The dusky champion is perfectly willing to administer the beating, but there are a number of folks who think that Willard ought to tackle Langford first. That would give the humane society a chance to line on Willard. It is a good idea to Willard what a chance it seems to think he would do, the humane society then could jump into the breach and do everything possible to prevent Johnson from turning Willard into the ring with him.

But Willard is unwilling to tackle the "Boston Tar Baby." He says he doesn't see why he should do so. "My pawst record," he remarks, "entitled me to battle with Champion Johnson."

Willard's record as a pugilist entitled him to go back to cowboying. Willard is in his fourth year as a fighter and has mingled in 25 battles. He won 18 fights via the knockout route. That sounds just terribly imposing. But analyzing the record throws a different light on the subject. Listed among Willard's 18 victories are 14 "unknowns." The other four "knowns" are: Dan Daly, Solider Kearns, One Round Davis and George Rodol.

Every one of the four "known" fighters that Willard has sent to the mat are jokes. Every one would have suffered the same fate when pitted against an average middleweight. Willard's victory over 14 "unknowns" counts but very little for him, because a man of his size and bulk—6 feet 6 inches and 245 pounds—and with his enormous reach and physical strength, ought to be able to knock out 14 unknowns in a week instead of taking four years to accomplish the trick.

The baseball magnates look at life now from a different angle. Before the Feds came into being the magnates were lords of all they surveyed. The ball players were slaves. Every time the magnates cracked the whip the ball players turned a flip-flop and shivered in their timbers.

But now, in these modern days, it's the player who has the whip, and the magnate who does the flip-flopping and the shivering. And the new order of things amuses fandom. Fandom naturally dislikes to see the working man—the producer—get the worse of the deal and now that his chance has come Fandom is glad.

ANNUAL DONATION DAY AT CLEARFIELD HOSPITAL

The Womens Auxiliary of the Clearfield hospital desires to call the attention of the public to the Eighth Annual Donation.

In view of the generous response to the recent "debt raising campaign" it has been thought best to omit, for this year, the customary house-to-house appeal for contributions. The need for renewed supplies is, however, always urgent, and such articles as jellies, canned fruits, groceries, coal, kindling wood, soap, old muslin, etc. will be gratefully welcomed at any time.

The week beginning November 23 has been fixed as donation week, and the different places of business have kindly offered to deliver at the hospital all goods purchased from them. All other donations may be left at the hospital or the following named residences: Mrs. Frank Fielding, South Front St.; Mrs. W. I. Swoope, Second and Pine Sts.; Mrs. H. B. Powell, South Second St.; Mrs. S. J. Waterworth, Second and Cherry Sts.; Mrs. J. P. O'Loughlin, Front St.; Mrs. A. H. Woodward, Locust St.; Mrs. G. J. WARNING TO CITIZENS FROM BOARD OF HEALTH

Diphtheria is now epidemic in many of the smaller towns near by; Boardman, Glen Richey, Allport and Bloomington are affected. It will therefore be wise for those persons visiting these places from Clearfield to use every precaution not to come into contact with cases of diphtheria and avoid contracting the disease or carrying infectious material. The only two cases of infectious disease reported in the borough in the past two months have been diphtheria. We should use every precaution to avoid the spread of this malady.

The toilet of the nose and throat should be carefully attended to. If there are coughs and colds they should be treated. Irritation of the throat and inflamed tonsils should receive attention, as such mucous membranes furnish an excellent soil upon which the diphtheria germs will rapidly multiply and cause the membrane to form, with full development of the accompanying symptoms. Where doubt exists, call your family physician early. Fear of quarantine should not influence you; your physician will not suggest this measure unless he conscientiously believes it necessary. We should all be willing to abide by the quarantine measure as this offers our chief weapon in the prevention of general epidemics. During the public school terms contagious disease frequently may become epidemic in an incredibly short time. It therefore requires the utmost vigilance to arrest any apparent outbreaks. We ask the assistance of every citizen in this most laudable undertaking.

EIGHT EXCELLENT REELS AT THE GLOBE TONIGHT

"The Uphill Climb" is a special two reel feature. A sorrowful mother impresses upon her ward the fact that her son must be redeemed through her, and makes it her dying wish that the girl marry the young man. How this is carried out makes a striking and absorbing story.

Mary Pickford in "Beast as Bay" is great. Don't miss it.

"The Family Record" is a powerful drama. "Daniel Segram," dressed in the garments of a sea captain and showing evidences of having plenty of money, wanders into a second hand book store, picks up a family bible and is shocked to find his own death record. See this wonderful romantic story at Globe tonight.

"Brother Billy Wins Out," another thrilling western romance that will please you at the Globe tonight.

"Caryl of the Mountains," featuring Kathryn Williams, of "Adventures of Kathlyn" fame. A moonshiner, anxious to win a mountain maid, tries to catch her through fear by starting the story that her father is a "Reverend." The real villain is caught and the girl is won by the man of her heart.

Edited by

REV. ROBERT C. PETERS

The Leading Issue.

"An excellent week-end of publication is the 1st, daily publication of measures sent to Congress," writes the Washington, D. C. correspondent to London Daily News. He then repeats the significant fact that on day when the Panama canal convention was at its height eight petitions came before the House which were received by Congress while there were thirty-one petitions for prohibition of a prohibition amendment, and twenty-seven against such action.

A Square Deal

A point to be emphasized in any long Senators and Representatives in Congress to support the Sheppard-Hobbs resolution and in so doing they are not invading the rights of individual states, nor forcing upon the people a wholly national prohibition of the traffic in intoxicating liquor, but that they are substituting the question to the states themselves. Voting citizens of the United States will, through their representatives in the forty-eight state legislatures, decide whether they want or do not want such an amendment to the federal constitution as the bill proposes. "Congress can wash its hands of the whole liquor question by letting the people settle it," says Mr. Hobbs. Thirty-six states must ratify the amendment before it can become law. It should be made clear in this submission campaign that the mode of procedure by which amendments are added to the United States Constitution sufficiently guard "state rights" and "popular sovereignty." It is a "square deal"—this giving the question into the hands of the people.

Of Interest to Taxpayers

Rockford, Ill., which has been with out saloons for several years, has only one policeman to each 1,800 persons, while wet cities of the same size employ one policeman for every one hundred or one thousand inhabitants. Kansas City, Kansas, employs only half a many policemen as before, and one were banished from the city. Newton, Kansas, employ only one policeman for its 10,000 inhabitants. This is only one of the many ways which a city's expenditures are reduced as the result of a no-license policy.

COLLEGE STUDENTS WILL DEBATE TIMELY QUESTIONS

The Pennsylvania Intercollegiate debating league, composed of Franklin and Marshall, Dickinson, Swarthmore and the Pennsylvania State college, will this year debate the following question: Resolved, that the United States should abandon the Monroe Doctrine. Each college selected a question the selection being made by a Franklin and Marshall representative.

It has been proposed by Professor J. F. Marshall, the new instructor in public speaking at the State college, that an effort be made to cause students to work on a system educating high and normal schools. For the last six years, said Professor Marshall, the so-called normal schools have been educating high school boys to take up the work of their neighbors.

"The Quaker Girl"

The attraction at the new opera house on Monday night will be the famous musical comedy hit, "The Quaker Girl," which is being sent to Clearfield by John P. Shuman. "The Quaker Girl" has a history which probably never been duplicated by any musical comedy, for it has been shown in London, Paris and New York, ranging in years instead of months as do the average musical plays. The music has been hummed and whistled all over the civilized world, but is of that remarkable quality which does not lose in repetition. The wonderful "Come to the Girl" waltz is conceded to be the most fitting melody of decades and compares favorably with the best Strauss rhythms. Seats now on sale.

VIGOROUS ARTILLERY DUEL CONTINUES

GERMANS MAKE FIERCE ATTACKS ON DEFENDER

Bombardment of the British Position at Ypres Goes on Day and Night

FLOODS MENACE THE GERMAN FORCES

In the Center of the Battle Line in France the Germans, Although Out-numbered, Have Been Able to Withstand the Attacks of the Allies Because of Their Heavier Guns and Better Positions—Germans Have Begun Their Forcing Tactics in the Region of Ypres—Rheims is Again Shelled by the Kaiser's Artillery—French Make Some Progress on the Heights of the Meuse.

(By International News Service)
Paris, Nov. 18.—For two days and nights the Germans have been bombarding the flanks and front of the British position at Ypres. These attacks appear to be the forerunner of another attempt to carry the defenders' trenches by storm.

At Dixmude the floods have menaced the German position and cut off their communication lines, washing out railroads and highways.

In the center the Germans, although outnumbered, are able to withstand the attacks of superior forces because of their heavier artillery and better position.

German Advance Checked
The impression gained here by the official bulletin last night, as the statement itself says, "satisfactory." The announcement that the allies have made progress at every point where the fighting has been important during the last two days since the loss of Dixmude, indicates that the German advance has been definitely checked and that the plan of General Joffre to push his lines ahead, no matter how slowly, is one that takes fully into account temporary checks and incidental reverses.

A Cheering Report
The report is especially cheering because of the fact that the Germans have again begun their forcing tactics in the region of Ypres, which has all along been the center of the most severe actions and that the allies have held their ground and even more or less marked progress. The statement follows:

"According to the latest advices, the enemy has renewed his attacks to the east and to the south of Ypres, but this has not altered the situation, which remains satisfactory."

"During the last two days we have registered progress, more or less pronounced, everywhere we have attacked; at Hetsas, on the Yser, between Annetieres and Arras, in the region of Vailly, in the Argonne and on the heights of the Meuse."

Rheims Again Shelled
London, Nov. 18.—Undeterred by wintry weather and floods, the Germans are still making an effort to break down the allies' defense along the Franco-Belgian frontier. Although the Berlin official report refers to the day as having been a quiet one, there has been an almost continuous artillery duel, with occasional infantry attacks, but apparently without either side making any progress.

The line from the coast to Neuport, which has been receiving less attention since the Germans began their attempt to get the British out of Ypres, again has been subjected to a bombardment, which is described as a very violent one, while to the south of Dixmude the Germans have been trying, under fire from the allies' cannon, to build works to check the flood which compelled them to evacuate part of their trenches.

At other points the big guns again have been busy, and Rheims has been subjected to another rain of shells.

Relieved the Pressure
From the allies' point of view probably the most important operations are those to the south of Verdun, where the French troops for some time have been trying further to relieve the pressure which the Germans have been exerting on the fortresses. They have at last succeeded, according to the French official communication, and besides making some progress on the heights of the Meuse, they have advanced on St. Mihiel, the only point on the left bank of the Meuse which the Germans have been successful in holding.

COME INTO TOWN; LIVING IS GOOD

Clearfield Should Extend Borough Lines in All Directions.

DISTRICTS SHOULD BE ANNEXED

There Are About a Dozen Settlements Adjacent to the Town Which Would Benefit if They Were to be Brought Across the Imaginary Line of Separation.

Why should not the lines of the borough be extended to include the districts lying adjacent to the corporation on all sides? This question has been frequently asked, both by citizens and strangers. There are at least a dozen districts within one and a quarter miles of Clearfield which ought by rights to be included in the borough limits. So far as is known, there is no serious objection on the part of the people living in these districts to annexation to the borough, while the fact that such annexation would greatly advance the interests and increase the value of the properties of the present outsiders might be enlarged upon at length.

The following are among the districts near to Clearfield which would be benefited by being brought into the borough: Moose Creek; Paradise and the hospital districts on the west; Boyntonville, Squaw Hollow and from Fourteenth street east to the north and east; Wrigley's addition, Harrison and Walker's plot and Hillsdale to the southeast; Riverside station, and the district south of Wallace street in the southwest, and the McNally farm, and the Snyder highway almost directly south.

If all of these districts were to be brought into the borough Clearfield would enjoy a much more unified reputation than it does at present and the population of the borough would be somewhere about 8000.

What has the borough to offer to the people of these outlying districts? In the first place, the borough is doing what it can to improve the streets and alleys. There are twenty miles of streets of all kinds in Clearfield. Of these six miles are paved and as the years pass other streets will be paved. There are twelve miles of sewers in Clearfield, and the sewer system would be extended to the new parts of the town as rapidly as the demand for the same would be made. Annexation to the borough would give the outlying districts the same advantages in the matter of paving and sewerage as those now enjoyed by the present borough.

In addition to this, the consolidation of the borough and the small districts in the township would afford to the people of the entire borough the educational facilities now enjoyed by the people of the borough and place them under the protection of the fire department. Two considerations which must appeal to the property owner and manufacturer. In the matter of educating their children the residents of the nearby districts would find that as citizens of the borough they would be giving their children much

(By International News Service)
London, Nov. 18.—British warships have resumed the bombardment of the German positions on the Belgian coast and are attempting to destroy the German artillery which is shelling Neuport. That city is almost ruined. The artillery duel in Belgium, the most terrific in the history of the world, continues day and night with the aid of search lights.

Many explosions occur along the coast from bombs dropped by aviators. These demolished a factory at Zeebrugge, where submarines were being constructed by the Germans.

better advantages than is possible in the township schools.

Aside from the material benefits which would accrue to the people who are now living outside the borough limits the fact that consolidation would obliterate from the map the numerous names of the districts in which they live—some of which names are not at all euphonious—should induce a majority of the people interested to agree to annexation and become in fact what they now are in sentiment—Clearfielders, citizens of best town in the West Branch valley—a united, contented, prosperous family.

MINSTREL SHOW WILL BE SUCCESS

Rehearsal Witnessed by J. Clark Bowyer of Opera House

HE PRAISES THE PARTICIPANTS

Says The Performance Will be One of the Best Home Talent Entertainments Ever Produced in Clearfield—Competent People in Charge of the Ends—Rehearsals are Being Faithfully Conducted.

At the rehearsal last evening of the Y. M. C. A. Minstrels, a few outsiders were invited to come in and see how the boys were progressing. One of the men invited was J. Clark Bowyer, of the Opera House. Mr. Bowyer listened to the solos, the comedy and chorus numbers and in fact a greater part of the show as it is to be given and at the close of the rehearsal, he told the boys that the show was bound to be a success and that they would without doubt, give Clearfield one of the best home talent minstrel shows ever produced here. Such praise from a man who is so well acquainted with the theatrical business, is indeed encouraging, not only to the producers of the show, but to the boys themselves.

The tickets are in the hands of the members, and as the dates, December 3 and 4 are but two weeks away it behooves everyone to secure their tickets at the earliest possible moment.

The ends in the minstrel are in the hands of Wm. P. Mitchell, who has already interested Clearfielders with his work, and R.E. Johnson, manager of the Progress, both of whom are directing the show, and whose past experience fits them for this work. The second and third ends are by "Red" Stauffer, "Foxy" Borton, "Nick" Phillips and Foster Borton. A full cast of the soloists, etc., will be printed in the newspaper in a few days. Rehearsals have been left open for this evening to allow a rest but will be resumed again tomorrow evening at 7:30.

Yes, Randolph; buck fever is contagious, but not always fatal.

War news has about as much truth connected with it as a fishing story.

Think and talk of the proposition to annex the outlying districts to the borough.

Our idea of a real hunter is one who is willing to allow some game to live to be hunted another year.

You can't see what strides Clearfield has made this year by sitting close to the radiator and gazing into vacancy.

Then there's the red-nosed man; even at that, he may owe the carmine tint on his nasal appendage to the frost instead of to frequent libations of distilled liquor.

In buying your Christmas gifts—and you will want to buy them early—don't forget to ask the merchant to show you those goods which are made in the United States.

FILL THE VACANCIES

Governor-elect Brumbaugh is no doubt receiving a plethora of advice from well-meaning persons as to how he should conduct himself after he assumes the robe of office.

Dr. Brumbaugh promised during his campaign to give Pennsylvania not only a clean, but efficient administration, and he was elected on that pledge.

Those who opposed his election do not expect to have him call any of them into his council, and they need not expect this, but as upright, honorable citizens they have a right to take an interest in the affairs of state, and they, with his friends, hope that Dr. Brumbaugh will inaugurate a new era in the manner in which the state government shall be conducted.

There is a number of office holders at the state capital whose positions should be filled by more competent, faithful persons. The governor has the power to remove from appointed office any official who fails to perform his duty in an efficient manner. No doubt he will take time to study the character of the men who hold office by the grace of the present governor, but the people expect him to make a number of changes when the terms for which the heads of departments and others were appointed have expired.

Next year quite a number of appointments' terms of office expire, and Dr. Brumbaugh will have an opportunity to select more competent and reliable men to the vacant offices.

While there are some officials in the governor's family who ought not to remain there there are several whose reappointment is an almost imperative necessity for the welfare of the departments over which they preside.

One of these is Dr. Samuel Dixon, at the head of the state health department, than whom there is no more faithful, intelligent and painstaking official in the state of Pennsylvania, a health officer who might occupy a national office if it were not for the fact that he prefers to give of his knowledge and experience for the protection of the health of the people of Pennsylvania.

As Dr. Brumbaugh is aware of the exceptional ability of Dr. Dixon it is not believed that he will disturb the doctor in his present position.

There is a bunch of small fry officials whose removal would be beneficial to the state and as the governor-elect has signified his willingness to take the people into his confidence and be guided by their wishes during his administration it is more than probable that he will weed out the useless and harmful office holders who have not either given proof of their ability or shown a desire to do what the people wanted done.

More is expected of Dr. Brumbaugh than was expected from any other person who has occupied the gubernatorial chair for a number of years, and the people will be greatly disappointed if he does not carry out the promises he made in his campaign.

BERLIN ALARMED

Even the German army staff in Berlin admits that the people of that city are becoming alarmed lest the "barbarians" march on Berlin after they have destroyed the combined German and Austrian armies.

No doubt the Berliners, having read how cities in Belgium and France were sacked and obliterated fear that if the Russians reach Berlin they will avenge the deeds committed in the name of the kaiser in his war on Belgium and France.

A Berlin dispatch states that "professional pessimists draw long faces" over the prospect of a Russian attack on Berlin. There must be quite a number of these pessimists or their long faces would not be noticed and made a part of the announcement of the German army staff.

The Germans were undoubtedly badly whipped at Warsaw. The kaiser has shown his disapproval of the campaign plans of the Austrian generals. The Russians have been winning battles day by day. These are among the things which, when they hear of them, the German people will regard as indicating the final success of the Russians.

Neither is the kaiser's army in Belgium and France making the headway toward Paris that was anticipated. All of these things are sufficient to cause the Berliners to fear that they will be made the objects of Russian wrath and that their city will meet the same fate that has befallen Brussels, Antwerp, Liege, Louvain, Rheims and a number of other places through which the kaiser's troops have passed.

LUCK IN A BLUNDER.

A Story of Frederick the Great and a Frightened Ensign.

During the last evening of my stay at Friedrichsruhe Bismarck was at his best. He was in excellent spirits. After dinner we lit pipes, and well filled tankards of beer were handy. The prince seated himself in his long armchair, put his feet upon a leg rest, and evidently he was settled down for a good talk.

He asked me what I should like him to relate. I said, "Pray, sir, tell me any story that comes into your head." Puffing vigorously at his pipe, the following story was slowly developed:

"My grandfather served for three years under Frederick the Great and told me this anecdote: An ensign made a blunder during the maneuvers of troops at a review. The king, as was his wont when annoyed, fell into a violent rage and pursued the terrified ensign, stick in hand. The young soldier ran for very life and jumped a ditch, leaving the king upon the other side shaking his stick at him in a fury.

"Shortly after the escape of the ensign the colonel of the regiment came up to the king and said, 'Your majesty, the young man committed a blunder doubtless, I have just received his resignation from your majesty's service, placing the document into the king's hands. I am sorry for it, for he was a good officer, but he can take no other step under the circumstances.'

"The king answered, 'Send him to me.' The ensign was sent for and came, trembling, lest this time the stripes should in reality fall upon his shoulders or, still worse, he might be sent to prison. Without any preface the king replied, 'Here is your captain cy, sir, which I endeavored to give you this morning, but you ran away so swiftly that my old legs could not catch you up.'—Sir W. B. Richmond in North American Review.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity.

In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water, drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

WINTER FOOD FOR FOWLS.

Animal Matter Should Be Supplied During Cold Season.

A great many erroneous impressions are held by some poultrymen in regard to the proper use of animal matter in the feed. Birds on free range in the summer take up large numbers of bugs, worms and various other insects. These contain elements that are absolutely necessary in the formation of bone, tissue, feathers and eggs. In the winter time or when the flock is kept closely yarded these elements must be provided artificially to get the best results.

Under average conditions the best feeds to furnish this necessary animal matter are green cut bone, meat scraps or meat meal and skim milk. Some good suggestions in regard to the use of these feeds are given by G. A. Bell, an expert in the employ of the government, as follows:

"Green cut bone is usually fed by itself, while the scraps and meat may be readily mixed with the mash. The bone consists of green or fresh bone, cut or shaved into thin pieces by a bone cutter. Bones from the butcher have more or less meat adhering, and the

"Where a good supply of fresh bone can be obtained regularly it is very useful, but it cannot be kept saved for such long periods as the best scraps and animal meat. Green cut bone should be fed carefully and in a sweet condition, otherwise bowel trouble may result. One pound a day is sufficient for twenty hens, but not more than half a pound should be fed to that number of birds when first beginning to use it.

"From a half to three-fourths of a pound of animal meat or meat scraps may be fed to twelve or fifteen hens a day. Any form of meat is likely to join in the bowels of the hen when first fed. The hens should be watched carefully and not fed too much. After the fowls have become accustomed to the animal meat or meat scraps they may be kept constantly before them.

"When properly fed milk makes an excellent food for poultry. In feeding sour milk or buttermilk, however, the feeder must exercise care not to give too much, or bowel trouble will result. Skim milk is an economical feed. In skimming the most valuable food constituents—the nitrogenous substances—are left in the skim milk. Not only does this skim milk contain much nutritive material, but it contains it in a form which, as a rule, is easily digested.

"Skim milk may be advantageously substituted in part for meat feeds. It may also be used in mixing the soft feed or it may be given to the fowls to drink in addition to water."

Get Seed Before Hard Frost.

"Be sure to gather your seed for next year's crop of kaffir and corn before the first hard frost if you wish to obtain the best results from the seed," says G. E. Thompson, field superintendent of substations in the Kansas Agricultural college.

"The seed grown on your own or your neighbor's farm will prove the best, as it is adapted to your soil and climate," he says.

"The best way to harvest a seed crop, according to Mr. Thompson, is to go into the field with a sack and a knife, selecting the heads from the stalk before the sorghum is in the shock. By using this method the farmer has a chance to get his seed from the stalks having the most value as forage. The injurious effects of the drought and frost can often be avoided by selecting seed from the heads that mature first and thus obtaining a strain of early maturing kaffir or cane.

"The heads used for seed should be of uniform type and of good size. Care should be taken to avoid hybrid heads which are big and fluffy, but late in maturing. Comparatively dense heads will give heavier yields when thrashed. The seed will prove more satisfactory if it is taken from plants that are grown under average conditions. Thrashing is best done in the spring. The seed can be stored in sacks in a dry place. A good plan is to tie the sacks to the rafters of the granary or barn with wires.

TIMELY GOSSIP OF RING AND DIAMOND BY MENKE

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

(Special to Progress.)

New York, Nov. 18.—Charles W. Somers, owner of the Cleveland Naps, now is in a position where he can yell, "I told you so," with reference to the Federal league.

Somers financed the American league back in 1900 and 1901. He is young in years but old in baseball knowledge. When the Feds began making noises like a big league last winter, Somers told his colleagues that the new league had sufficient backing and that it looked to him like a permanent proposition.

Somers was laughed at. "All right," said Somers. "You fellows can spoof the Feds if you want. But to me it seems that they aren't going about this business with any five-by-five tactics. They are building for the future. We'd better give them real consideration right now before this matter goes to a point where we'll be forced into some ugly position."

Jesse Willard, the fairly well known cowboy, intends to stand pat on what he has accomplished so far. He will not monkey with the buzz-saw of pugilism, known in private life as Sam Langford.

Willard means to be beaten up by Jack Johnson. The dusky champion is perfectly willing to administer the beating, but there are a number of folks who think that Willard ought to tackle Langford first. That would give the humane society a chance to line on Willard. It is a good idea to Willard what amount seems to think he would do, the humane society then could jump into the breach and do everything possible to prevent Johnson from turning Willard into the ring with him.

But Willard is unwilling to tackle the "Boston Tar Baby." He says he doesn't see why he should do so. "My pawst record," he remarks, "entitled me to battle with Champion Johnson."

Willard's record as a pugilist entitled him to go back to cowboying. Willard is in his fourth year as a fighter and has mingled in 25 battles. He won 18 fights via the knockout route. That sounds just terribly imposing. But analyzing the record throws a different light on the subject. Listed among Willard's 18 victories are 14 "unknowns." The other four "knowns" are: Dan Daly, Solider Kearns, One Round Davis and George Rodol.

Every one of the four "known" fighters that Willard has sent to the mat are jokes. Every one would have suffered the same fate when pitted against an average middleweight. Willard's victory over 14 "unknowns" counts but very little for him, because a man of his size and bulk—6 feet 6 inches and 245 pounds—and with his enormous reach and physical strength, ought to be able to knock out 14 unknowns in a week instead of taking four years to accomplish the trick.

The baseball magnates look at life now from a different angle. Before the Feds came into being the magnates were lords of all they surveyed. The ball players were slaves. Every time the magnates cracked the whip the ball players turned a flip-flop and shivered in their timbers.

But now, in these modern days, it's the player who has the whip, and the magnate who does the flip-flopping and the shivering. And the new order of things amuses fandom. Fandom naturally dislikes to see the working man—the producer—get the worse of the deal and now that his chance has come Fandom is glad.

ANNUAL DONATION DAY AT CLEARFIELD HOSPITAL

The Womens Auxiliary of the Clearfield hospital desires to call the attention of the public to the Eighth Annual Donation.

In view of the generous response to the recent "debt raising campaign" it has been thought best to omit, for this year, the customary house-to-house appeal for contributions. The need for renewed supplies is, however, always urgent, and such articles as jellies, canned fruits, groceries, coal, kindling wood, soap, old muslin, etc. will be gratefully welcomed at any time.

The week beginning November 23 has been fixed as donation week, and the different places of business have kindly offered to deliver at the hospital all goods purchased from them. All other donations may be left at the hospital or the following named residences: Mrs. Frank Fielding, South Front St.; Mrs. W. I. Swoope, Second and Pine Sts.; Mrs. H. B. Powell, South Second St.; Mrs. S. J. Waterworth, Second and Cherry Sts.; Mrs. J. P. O'Loughlin, Front St.; Mrs. A. H. Woodward, Locust St.; Mrs. G. J. WARNING TO CITIZENS FROM BOARD OF HEALTH

Diphtheria is now epidemic in many of the smaller towns near by; Boardman, Glen Richey, Allport and Bloomington are affected. It will therefore be wise for those persons visiting these places from Clearfield to use every precaution not to come into contact with cases of diphtheria and avoid contracting the disease or carrying infectious material. The only two cases of infectious disease reported in the borough in the past two months have been diphtheria. We should use every precaution to avoid the spread of this malady.

The toilet of the nose and throat should be carefully attended to. If there are coughs and colds they should be treated. Irritation of the throat and inflamed tonsils should receive attention, as such mucous membranes furnish an excellent soil upon which the diphtheria germs will rapidly multiply and cause the membrane to form, with full development of the accompanying symptoms. Where doubt exists, call your family physician early. Fear of quarantine should not influence you; your physician will not suggest this measure unless he conscientiously believes it necessary. We should all be willing to abide by the quarantine measure as this offers our chief weapon in the prevention of general epidemics. During the public school terms contagious disease frequently may become epidemic in an incredibly short time. It therefore requires the utmost vigilance to arrest any apparent outbreaks. We ask the assistance of every citizen in this most laudable undertaking.

EIGHT EXCELLENT REELS AT THE GLOBE TONIGHT

"The Uphill Climb" is a special two reel feature. A sorrowing mother impresses upon her ward the fact that her son must be redeemed through her, and makes it her dying wish that the girl marry the young man. How this is carried out makes a striking and absorbing story.

Mary Pickford in "Beat at Bay" is great. Don't miss it.

"The Family Record" is a powerful drama. "Daniel Segram," dressed in the garments of a sea captain and showing evidences of having plenty of money, wanders into a second hand book store, picks up a family bible and is shocked to find his own death record. See this wonderful romantic story at Globe tonight.

"Brother Billy Wins Out," another thrilling western romance that will please you at the Globe tonight.

"Caryl of the Mountains," featuring Kathryn Williams, of "Adventures of Kathlyn" fame. A moonshiner, anxious to win a mountain maid, tries to catch her through fear by starting the story that her father is a "Reverend." The real villain is caught and the girl is won by the man of her heart.

TEMPERANCE TIDINGS

Research and News.

Edited by

REV. ROBERT C. PETERS

The Leading Issue.

"An excellent weekbook of publication is the 'Temperance Tidings,' of measures sent to Congress," writes the Washington, D. C. correspondent to London Daily News. He then repeats the significant fact that on day when the Panama canal convention was at its height city eight petitions came upon that subject were received by Congress while there were thirty-one petitions for prohibition of a prohibition amendment, and twenty-seven against such action.

A Square Deal

A point to be emphasized in any long Senators and Representatives in Congress to support the Sheppard-Hobbs resolution and in so doing they are not invading the rights of individual states, nor robbing upon the people who will naturally oppose the prohibition of the traffic in intoxicating liquor, but that they are substituting the question to the states themselves. Voting citizens of the United States will, through their representatives in the forty-eight state legislatures, decide whether they want or do not want such an amendment to the federal constitution as they will propose. "Congress can wash its hands of the whole liquor question by letting the people settle it," says Mr. Hobbs. Thirty-six states must ratify the amendment before it can become law. It should be made clear in this submission that the mode of procedure by which amendments are added to the United States Constitution sufficiently guard "state rights" and "popular sovereignty." It is a "square deal"—this giving the question into the hands of the people.

Of Interest to Taxpayers

Rockford, Ill., which has been with out saloons for several years, has only one policeman to each 1,800 persons, while wet cities of the same size employ one policeman for every one hundred or one thousand inhabitants. Kansas City, Kansas, employs only half a many policemen as before, and one were banished from the city. Newton, Kansas, employ only one policeman for its 10,000 inhabitants. This is only one of the many ways which a city's expenditures are reduced as the result of a no-license policy.

COLLEGE STUDENTS WILL DEBATE TIMELY QUESTIONS

The Pennsylvania Intercollegiate debating league, composed of Franklin and Marshall, Dickinson, Swarthmore and the Pennsylvania State college, will this year debate the following question: Resolved, that the United States should abandon the Monroe Doctrine. Each college selected a question the selection being made by a Franklin and Marshall representative.

It has been proposed by Professor J. F. Marshall, the new instructor in public speaking at the State college, that an effort be made to cause students to work on a system educating high and normal schools. For the last six years, said Professor Marshall, the so-called normal schools, debating has been a mere high school exercise. The new normal schools, he said, are to be a new kind of school, and the normal schools are to be a new kind of school, and the normal schools are to be a new kind of school.

"The Quaker Girl"
The attraction at the new opera house on Monday night will be the famous musical comedy hit, "The Quaker Girl," which is being sent to Clearfield by John P. Shuman. "The Quaker Girl" has a history which probably never been duplicated by any musical comedy, for it has been shown in London, Paris and New York, ranging in years instead of months as do the average musical plays. The music has been hummed and whistled all over the civilized world, but is of that remarkable quality which does not lose in repetition. The wonderful "Come to the Ball" waltz is conceded to be the most fitting melody of decades and compares favorably with the best Strauss rhythms. Seats now on sale.
